DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on April 19th, 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 – 16, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Grenchus et al. [US 7,054,824], in view of Rousseau et al. [US 2002/0001001], in view of Teveler et al. [US 2001/0034663], and further in view of Official Notice.

As per claims 1 – 5, 8 – 12, 15 and 16, Rousseau discloses determining sale terms or lease terms based on the estimated remaining life of the commodity

Art Unit: 3627

[see column 2, lines 19 – 26 (e.g. determined using current resale), and via step 38]; selling or renting the commodity to a second user in accordance with the sale terms or the lease terms [see column 5, lines 19 – 28 (e.g. selling the whole product is determined)]; collecting the commodity from the second user [see column 2, lines 45 – 63 (e.g. collecting a resale price for the product)]; and dismantling the commodity into a plurality of parts after the collection of the commodity from the second user, wherein the recording section records the information indicating the usage history of the commodity in a manner in which it is substantially impossible for a user of the commodity to alter the usage history information [see column 4, lines 7 – 12 (e.g. dismantling and material separation to pursue), and lines 30 – 37 (e.g. dismantling and removal of parts from a product)].

Grenchus does not explicitly disclose estimating a remaining life of the commodity based on information indicating a usage history of the commodity recorded in a recording section provided in the commodity. However, Rousseau discloses estimating a remaining life of the commodity based on information indicating a usage history of the commodity recorded in a recording section provided in the commodity [see abstract, and claim 13].

Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Grenchus' invention to include Rousseau's feature mentioned above. The motivation to combine would provide a method for determining estimated remaining life information for a replaceable commodity.

The combination of Grenchus and Rousseau does not explicitly disclose selling or renting a commodity to a first user and collecting the commodity from the first user. However, Teveler discloses selling or renting a commodity to a first user [see figure 3, and paragraph 0114 (e.g. commodity buyers and sellers)]; collecting the commodity from the first user [see paragraph 0014 (e.g. collect buyers' requests for certain items)].

Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the combination of Grenchus and Rousseau to include Teveler's method of selling or renting a commodity to a first user. The motivation to combine would provide a buyer with a discount on an original purchase of a product or service, or for the extension of credit, by tying the original transaction to a contract for the long-term purchase of one or more commodities [see paragraph 0023].

Grenchus, Rousseau, and Teveler do not explicitly disclose the recording section includes information for specifying a country, which is suitable for dismantling the commodity. However, the Examiner takes official notice that it was well known in the arts to specify a country, for example any computer store address in the United States to dismantle a computer. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicants' invention to include the aforementioned limitation within Grenchus, Rousseau, and Teveler for specifying a country, which is suitable for dismantling the commodity.

As per claims 6, 7, 13, and 14, Grenchus discloses the commodity includes a device for sending particular information which is particular to the commodity

Art Unit: 3627

[column 1, lines 15 – 24 (e.g. associated devices)]; the particular information includes distribution information for specifying a party involved in a distribution of the commodity [see figure 1], and when the particular information from the commodity ceases, notifies a party involved in the distribution of the commodity, which is specified by the distribution information included in the most recent piece of particular information from the commodity [via value database 26, column 4, lines 39 – 47 (e.g. source of parts values may be recent sale prices to parts brokers)], that the particular information from the commodity has ceased [see figures 2A-2B (e.g. information flow and decision making)].
